VOL. XXXI. 1887–88. APPENDIX.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE FIFTY-SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY MEETING.

THE FIFTY-SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY MEETING of the Members was held in the Theatre of the Institution on Saturday, March 3rd, 1888, at 3 o'clock.

THE RIGHT HONOURABLE LORD GEORGE F. HAMILTON, M.P., FIRST LORD OF THE ADMIRALTY, IN THE CHAIR.

THE CHAIRMAN:—My Lords and Gentlemen, I am afraid one of the results of conferring upon me the honour of asking me to preside to-day has been that I have been compelled to fix the meeting at an hour which may not be convenient for the gentlemen here present. Unfortunately there was a Cabinet at 12.30, and I had no option in the matter. As there may be many who are anxious to get away as soon as possible, I will at once call upon the Secretary to read the Report of the past year.

I. The Fifty-seventh Annual Report was read as follows:—

1. The Council have the pleasure of submitting their FIFTY-SEVENTH Annual Report.

MEMBERS.

2. Thirty-nine Life Members and One hundred and Two Annual Subscribers, making a total of One hundred and Forty-one new Members, joined the Institution during the past year. The loss by death amounted to One hundred and Ten, and Sixty-three Members withdrew their names.

The names of Fifty-six Annual Subscribers whose subscriptions were in arrears for over two years have, in accordance with Section V, par. 6, of the Bye-laws, been struck off the list of Members.

The Journal.

9. The sale of the Journal produced £459 10*s.* 4*d.* as compared with £456 5*s.* 6*d.* in the previous year. An Index of Subjects and Authors in volumes XXI—XXX of the Journal, and a "Brief History of the Institution," have been issued to the Members.

Library.

10. The Library now contains 22,087 volumes, of which three hundred and nine have been added since the last Report; of these, one hundred and twenty-seven have been purchased, one hundred and thirty-four presented, and the remainder are bound periodicals, &c.

The preparation of a new Catalogue has been commenced, and the Council hope that it will be on sale to the Members before the close of the year.

Donations of books and maps have been received from the Governments of Austria, Brazil, Denmark, France, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Russia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, and the United States.

The thanks of the Council have been conveyed to the several Governments for these donations.

The Institution is indebted to the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, to the Secretaries of State for War, and for India, for copies of various works issued by their Departments, and to the Speaker of the House of Commons for Parliamentary Papers.

The exchange of Journals with Foreign Governments and with many Scientific Societies, in this and other countries, has been continued.

A list of the additions to the Library and to the Museum will be found in the "Proceedings" of this day's meeting, and in the Appendix to Vol. XXXI of the Journal.

A Lending Library (see Appendix D), available for Members in the United Kingdom, was opened on the 1st November, 1887. The Council hope by this means to extend the sphere of the usefulness of the Institution.

As a further step in the same direction, they desire to bring to notice that when enquiries are received from Members on Naval and Military professional subjects, an endeavour is made either to furnish answers, or to point out where the information sought for can be obtained.

3. Members of the United Service Institution of India proceeding to the United Kingdom on "Furlough," or leave exceeding six months, shall be permitted to attend Lectures and use the Reading Room, &c., of the Royal United Service Institution on payment of 10*s.* per annum. Should they wish also to receive its Journal (which can only be delivered by the Secretary on personal application, or to an authorized agent, without incurring postage charges), an additional annual payment of 10*s.* will be necessary.

4. In the event of Temporary Members, under paragraph 1, obtaining an extension of leave for six months, and wishing also to obtain the Journal, they can do so on payment of fifteen (15) shillings in addition to the five shillings already paid.

5. All the above subscriptions to be paid in advance, and admission as a "Temporary Member" to take place on payment.

6. The above rules will apply to both Life and Annual Members of the United Service Institution of India.

B. Proposed that—

2. The Secretaries of both Institutions will interchange lists of Members, made up to date, periodically.

The Council now submit that the above proposals receive the sanction of the Members as a tentative measure for one year.

Corresponding Members of Council.

14. On the 1st January, 1888, the number of Corresponding Members of Council was 256.

Gold Medal.

15. The Council regret to report that only three Essays (one too late for adjudication) have been received in competition for the Gold Medal, the subject being—

"Naval attack of a fortified harbour, an enemy's fleet being within it; full consideration is to be given to the subject of Submarine Mining."

Rear-Admiral P. H. Colomb, Captain Arthur Wilson, V.C., R.N., and Commander Chas. Campbell, R.N., kindly undertook the duties of Referees.

Their decision will be made known to this Meeting.

16. Subject for the Military Essay for this Year.

"Discipline; its importance to an armed force, and the best means of maintaining it."

The competition is open to Members of the Institution, and to all who are eligible to become Members.

Members of Council.

17. The following Members retire by seniority of service on the Council, viz.:—

Major-General A. C. Cooke, C.B., R.E.	Vice-Admiral C. E. H. Somerset.
Major-General Sir Frederic Goldsmid, C.B., K.C.S.I.	General G. Erskine.
Rear-Admiral J. Bythesea, V.C., C.B.	Admiral Sir F. L. M'Clintock, F.R.S.
General J. T. Walker, C.B., F.R.S.	Lieut.-Colonel T. H. Baylis, Q.C.

The Council submit the names of ten Members, from which vacancies may be filled up. The first eight on the list are proposed for immediate election, viz.:—

General J. T. Walker, C.B., F.R.S.	For re-election.
General G. Erskine.
Lieutenant-Colonel T. H. Baylis, Q.C.
Captain A. Abercrombie Jopp, late R.E.	For immediate election.
Captain S. Eardley Wilmot, R.N.
Major Lord Kilmarnock, Royal Horse Guards.
Colonel Malcolm Green, C.B.
Rear-Admiral Tracey.
Major-General Goodenough, C.B., R.A.
Captain R. N. Custance, R.N.
Colonel M. H. Hale.

Conclusion.

In concluding their Report, the Council cannot avoid expressing their regret that it has been found necessary to strike off the names of 56 Members for non-payment of their subscriptions, and that the number of deaths and withdrawals has more than counterbalanced the number of new Members, so that there has been a serious decrease in the number of Members. This decrease is no doubt in a great measure attributable to the fact that Officers have been deterred from joining the Institution by the uncertainty which has for some time past hung over its position, and therefore the Council earnestly hope that the Government will speedily settle the important question of replacing the present premises of the Institution by a suitable habitation, which, they consider, is all that is wanting to ensure its future prosperity.

Whitehall Yard,
16*th February*, 1888.

By Order,
B. BURGESS, Captain,
Secretary.

1. Any Member in the United Kingdom, and who is not in arrears of his Subscription, shall, on payment in advance of 10*s.* for twelve months from date of payment, be permitted to borrow books from the Library subject to the following Regulations.

2. The above Rule will not, as regards payment, apply to Officers employed in the War Office or Admiralty, who may desire works from the Library to assist them in their professional duties.

3. All charges for the transmission of books, from or to the Institution, shall be paid by the Members borrowing.

A Member borrowing a book from the Library shall be responsible to the Institution for its safety and good condition from the time of its leaving the Institution, until it is received back by the Librarian: in case of loss, damage or defacement by marking or in any other way, he shall replace the same, or make it good, or shall furnish another copy, or pay the value of the entire work of which it may be a part, as may be directed by the Council.

6. Members borrowing books are not privileged to lend them.

8. Books borrowed from the Library are not to be detained longer than one month.

9. Non-compliance with any of the above Rules will render a Member liable to the forfeiture of the privilege of borrowing books.

By order of the Council,

JOHN DAY,

Librarian.

Royal United Service Institution,

6th July, 1887.

Rear-Admiral MAYNE, C.B., M.P.:—

Mr. Chairman, my Lords and Gentlemen,—I have been asked to move, "That the Report, now read, be adopted and printed for circulation among the Members." In doing so I would point out in the first place that the falling off in the number of members which has been remarked upon by the Secretary, and is the apparently bad feature of the Report, is, to a great extent, compensated for by the fact that 69 members have joined since the 1st of January, or within the last two months. The Lending Library, I think, every one must feel is an extremely good institution; and also the further step which it is proposed to take in the same direction for furnishing answers to information sought for by members of the Institution. The affiliation of this Institution with that of India is also a step in the right direction, not only because it will give the members of the Indian Army who return home from India the benefits of this Institution, but it will also give the members of this Institution the benefits of the Indian Institution when they are serving in India. The decrease of the members, as it has been pointed out, is, no doubt, principally owing to the unsettled state of the Institution itself as regards this building, which the Secretary informs me he is in some slight fear will tumble down over his head unless something is done to it in a short time. You are aware, of course, that correspondence has been going on between the Treasury and the Council of the Institution for some time on this matter, and that no definite answer has yet been received; but we cannot help hoping—I might say believing—that with the present people at the head of the War Office and his Lordship at the head of the Admiralty, that in view specially of the large savings which have been made in the estimates for this year—and the devout desire which one cannot help feeling they must have, to benefit an Institution such as this which does such immense good both to the Army and Navy—I might say also the savings which the Chancellor of the Exchequer will make on the percentage, they might see their way to incurring the very small liability of the interest necessary to erect another building here, in addition to the subscription or subvention which they annually give. I trust, if the First Lord is not able to commit himself in any way, that something may be said, or at least that we may soon know something, because the state of the Institution is really tumble down, and also, as I said before, it prevents members from joining as they otherwise would. With these few words I beg to move, that "This Report be adopted and printed for circulation among the members."

Lieut.-Colonel HOWARD VINCENT, C.B., M.P.:—

As one who, when a subaltern in the Army, derived great benefit and advantage from the membership of this Institution, I have great pleasure in complying with your wish that I should second the Motion, the adoption of which has been moved by Admiral Mayne. I can heartily corroborate and re-echo what he has said as to the enormous value of this Institution to every Officer of the Army, Navy, and Auxiliary Forces. It is unfortunate that only 4,300 of the whole body of Officers are members. I earnestly hope that in the early future, and more especially as this year has already begun by an accession of strength of 69 members, that the roll of membership may show a very substantial increase. The Government Grant already is £600 a-year; this Grant, having been continued for many years, and through successive Governments, is a sufficient testimony to the great value set upon this Institution by all the authorities who preside over the War Office and the Admiralty. It is not only of advantage to the individual Officers for the time being of the Army, Navy, and Auxiliary Forces, but this Institution is of very great value indeed to the country. As a member, and at the present time Commanding Officer of a Regiment of Volunteers, I should be unwilling to resume my seat without expressing the great indebtedness of the Auxiliary Forces and of the Officers of the Reserve Forces, for the very liberal manner in which the professional studies of the Officers of the Reserve Forces have received encouragement at the hands of the Council. We are exceedingly gratified to find that an old member of the Volunteer Force in London, Col. Baylis, has been proposed for re-election to the Council, and we are deeply indebted for the arrangements which are made from time to time for the giving of lectures and the reading of papers of great value, not only to the Officers of the Regular Service, and of both branches of the Regular Service, but also to Officers of the Reserve Forces. I earnestly hope, as an old member of nearly 20 years standing of this Institution, that the time may not be very far distant when, through your kindly offices, my Lord, and those of your colleagues, we may see the Institution enjoying a permanent and satisfactory home worthy of itself, and worthy of the great Services which it represents. I am sure that there is no Officer connected with the Services who has passed of late down Whitehall, who has not witnessed with regret the improvements which have been going on in this locality, while no arrangements have as yet been made as regards the future of this most valuable Institution. I hope that whoever may preside over our next annual meeting will be able to announce to the members, not only at that meeting, but throughout the Empire, that not only have arrangements been made for the acquisition of a good site, but that substantial progress has been already made in the erection of that permanent home for the Institution which we all desire to see it possess. I have great pleasure in seconding this Resolution.

The Resolution, having been put from the Chair, was carried unanimously.

II.—Captain J. C. R. Colomb, C.M.G., M.P.:—

My Lords and Gentlemen,—The Resolution I have the honour to propose for the acceptance of the meeting runs as follows, "That the thanks of this meeting be given to the members of the Council who retire by rotation, and that the following Members be elected to fill the vacancies, viz.:—

General J. T. Walker, C.B., F.R.S.
General G. Erskine.
Lieut.-Colonel T. H. Baylis, Q.C.
} For re-election,

Captain A. Abercrombie Jopp, late R.E.
Captain S. Eardley Wilmot, R.N.
Major Lord Kilmarnock, Royal Horse Guards.
Colonel Malcolm Green, C.B.
Rear-Admiral Tracey.
} For immediate election,

and that the following names of Members be adopted from which to select in case of vacancies occurring in the Council, viz.:—

Major-General Goodenough, C.B., R.A.
Captain R. N. Custance, R.N.
Colonel M. H. Hale."

I am sure it is quite unnecessary for me to delay the business of the meeting by offering any observations on this Resolution. I think the retiring members—it will be unanimously acknowledged—are worthy of our thanks, and we are quite sure that these members proposed for election are entitled to our confidence. I cannot refrain from adding to what has fallen from the gallant Admiral and Colonel Vincent with reference to the future of the Institution, that I think, and trust, that the Government, in considering this question of the future of the Institution as referred to in the Report, will remember not only the great advantage which has accrued to the two Services by the existence of this Institution and the work done by the Council, but also that it is through the Institution that the country has been enlightened upon Naval and Military questions, without which the administration of the country would be much more difficult to be carried on.

Professor J. K. Laughton, M.A., R.N.:—

I have great pleasure, my Lord, in seconding the Resolution which Captain Colomb has proposed. It seems needless for me to offer any words after what Captain Colomb has so ably said as to the thanks which the retiring members of Council have so well earned, not only from all here present, but from the members of the Institution at large. As to the work of the Council I am sure that we are indebted to them, to a very great extent indeed, for the efficiency of the Institution, and any gentleman who devotes his time and labour to furthering that is worthy of our most sincere thanks. I have great pleasure in seconding the Resolution.

The Resolution, having been put from the Chair, was carried unanimously.

Admiral Rt. Hon. Sir J. C. D. HAY, Bart., K.C.B. :—

The Resolution placed in my hands is, "That the thanks of this meeting be given to the Auditors, E. R. Raitt, Esq., Lieut.-Colonel Wethered, and Lionel Chas. Drummond, Esq., for their valuable services, and that Mr. Raitt, who goes out by rotation, be elected for the ensuing year." These gentlemen have all given most valuable service to this Institution, some of them for a long time. It is creditable, I think, to our accountant, that, as I understand, in spite of a very searching scrutiny, they have never taken the slighest objection to anything that they have discovered in the accounts. That is in favour of the management of the Institution; but it is also satisfactory to know that the Auditors have submitted the accounts to this searching scrutiny, and have given us this satisfactory answer. I beg to move the Resolution placed in my hands, which also implies the re-election of Mr. Raitt.

General ANDERSON :—

I have great pleasure in seconding the Resolution. I am sure we owe these gentlemen our thanks for the performance of a very necessary service.

The Resolution, having been put from the Chair, was carried unanimously.

The CHAIRMAN :—

I now ask the Secretary to read the Report of the Referees in reference to the Naval Prize Essays.

Captain BURGESS :—

My Lord, there are practically two Reports. One is from Commander Campbell, who has been appointed to a ship abroad. He makes his Report to Captain Arthur Wilson, one of the Referees, and says, "Having been requested to study the accompanying Essays, and to report to you as to their relative merits (only those with the mottoes, "Perseverando" and "Furth fortune and fill the fetters," being admissible), I have the honour to inform you that, though I consider "Perseverando" out and away the better of the two, I do not consider that any of the Essays sent in are of a sufficiently high standard of merit to earn their author the Gold Medal of the R.U.S.I." Admiral P. H. Colomb and Captain Arthur Wilson report as follows:—"Sir, we have carefully examined the Essays sent in to compete for the Gold Medal this year, and are of opinion that neither of those, otherwise eligible, are of sufficient merit to justify the award of the Medal; nor do we see that any advantage would result from publishing any of those sent in."

Admiral Sir F. LEOPOLD McCLINTOCK :—

My Lords and Gentlemen,—I have great pleasure in proposing the Resolution which has been placed in my hands to the effect "That a vote of thanks be given to the Referees, viz.:—Rear-Admiral Colomb, Captain Arthur Wilson, V.C., R.N., and Commander Chas. Campbell, R.N., for their valuable services in adjudicating on the Naval Prize Essays." I am sure that these names, which are so well known to the Naval Service, will carry with them perfect confidence in any adjudication which these Officers have arrived at. I think it unnecessary to occupy time by saying anything further; I will simply propose the Resolution.

Maj.-Gen. Sir WM. CROSSMAN, K.C.M.G., M.P. :—

I have great pleasure in seconding that Resolution. I know the duties which these Referees of Prize Essays have to undertake, and I am sure we are very much obliged to these gentlemen for undertaking them. I only hope the next Referees will have much harder work to do than these gentlemen have had on this occasion.

The Resolution was put from the Chair and carried unanimously.

The CHAIRMAN :—

I believe it is my duty to announce that the business of the meeting is concluded.

General ERSKINE, Chairman of Council :—

All the Resolutions on the Agenda paper having been disposed of, it is now my duty to ask you to tender to Lord George Hamilton our thanks for his kindness in coming here to-day to preside over this meeting; and I am quite sure that this will not be done in a merely formal manner, but with very great cordiality, when we remember what very great demands are made upon the time of a statesman who occupies the position which Lord George Hamilton occupies, namely, at the head of a very large Department of the State, and also occupying a seat in the House of Commons, where, in the present day, as we know, a Minister of the Crown, even if he is not Chief Secretary for Ireland, has to go through very onerous duties indeed. I do not think I need say anything more upon this subject; but there is one point which I should like, as Chairman of the Council, to say a word upon, if you can bear with me for a few minutes. About this time last year we received an intimation from the Government, that very shortly we should be called upon to surrender the premises which we now occupy, and it, therefore, became a matter of urgency to us to take steps for ensuring something being done in regard to our future. A correspondence thereupon arose with the Treasury, and resulted, as you have heard read in the Report to-day, in the Council suggesting that the Government should provide, on the present site, for the Institution, a new house free of rent. I think it is incumbent upon me to offer some explanation in regard to the position which we have thus taken up in regard to the Government. I may say in justification of what we have done, that there are two matters which should be borne in mind. The first is, that we are asking for nothing which we have not already received from the Government. Since 1857, the Government have provided a house practically free of expense and a small money grant; and in the next place I may say that there are seven Societies, literary and scientific, which once occupied premises in Somerset House, and that when it was necessary for the Public Service that these premises should be otherwise appropriated, the Government provided a habitation for these seven Societies in Burlington House, free of cost; and we contend that the United Service Institution has as great claims upon the Government as those seven Societies. However, this is a question of finance, and will therefore have to be dealt with by the Chancellor of the Exchequer. He is the only person who can take it in hand, and it is a matter of congratulation, I think, to the Council that that post is in the hands, at the present time, of a statesman who will not take a narrow official view of the matter, but will deal with our position in a patriotic and enlightened way, and I am sure that he will not forget that this Institution has been acknowledged on all sides to have rendered very great benefits to both the Naval and Military services of the country. No doubt, when the time for a decision of this great question —great in our eyes at all events—arrives, we shall have the benefit of the advocacy of the First Lord of the Admiralty. However, Gentlemen, I should be sorry that it should be said of us that our gratitude to the First Lord is the expectation of future favours, and therefore I will say, irrespectively of anything that may happen hereafter, we now tender to his Lordship our warmest thanks for his having come here to-day.

General SIR C. P. BEAUCHAMP WALKER, K.C.B. :—

I have very great pleasure in fulfilling the duty which has been delegated to me by our Chairman, of seconding the motion that he has just made. I am still better pleased to do so, because he has said so much, and others who have spoken before, have said so much more, on the burning question of our site, that I need say nothing further on the subject. I therefore have great pleasure in seconding the Resolution, "That the cordial thanks of the meeting be given to the Right Hon. Lord George Hamilton, M.P., for having taken the Chair this day."

The Resolution having been put, was unanimously agreed to.

LORD GEORGE HAMILTON :—

Gentlemen,—I thank you for the honour you have been kind enough to confer upon me. I can assure you that I much appreciated the invitation to preside over this your annual meeting, for I knew it would not only bring me in contact with an Institution which I believe has been of the greatest benefit both to the Army and the Navy, but also I felt that I might come personally in contact with a number of distinguished Officers belonging to both Services, who, during the time they were on active service, were a credit and an ornament both to the Army and the Navy, and are now devoting their leisure time to promoting the efficiency of the two Services to which they belong. I regret to find that there is an unanimous opinion —in which every speaker has concurred—that the uncertainty which attends the future domicile of this Institution does impair its financial position. Well, Gentlemen, I may tell you, if it is any consolation to you, that the War Office and the Admiralty are in much the same state of uncertainty. I am hopeful, however, that we may this year take some steps towards certainly housing the Admiralty. I dare say those of you who take an interest in this question will recollect that a Committee of the House of Commons rejected a scheme of Mr. Shaw Lefevre's which proposed to erect a gigantic edifice on the site now occupied by the Admiralty with certain houses now in course of demolition in Spring Gardens. They recommended that, in place of this great edifice, there should be an extension of the existing Admiralty buildings. If the House of Commons assent to that proposal, there are, on the land acquired, and which the new Admiralty will not require, certain unoccupied sites. I have no authority to speak on behalf of the Government, but still, recollecting what occurred on that Committee, I cannot help hoping that it might be possible to utilize some spare portion of the site not required by the Admiralty for the excellent purpose of housing the Royal United Service Institution. I understand there is some financial difficulty in maintaining any large edifice that hereafter may be erected, if the present funds, which are invested in the name of the Royal United Service Institution, were in any way curtailed. May I venture to make one suggestion—that assuming any such site were obtainable and a handsome edifice was erected upon it, there would no doubt be a considerable amount of space in the basement story which might be utilized; and it seems to me that if it were possible to concentrate round the United Service Institution some of those excellent naval and military charitable and benevolent institutions which do so much good, you might not only make this Institution a nucleus of great charitable work for the Army and Navy, but you also might obtain a substantial addition to your existing income. I merely throw that out, because I think it is a matter which is very well worth considering, when we have arrived at the state, which I hope we shall do, that we shall be able to consider what is the nature and size of the new building to be erected.

Now, speaking of the Institution itself, I was much struck in looking through the papers which have been read and discussed during the past year in this building by their great variety. But there has seemed to me this great distinction between papers relating to Army matters and to Naval matters—the Army papers were to a large extent based upon knowledge and experience; the naval papers were to a large extent theoretical. And it must necessarily be so. During the past twenty-five years nearly all the great military Powers of Europe have been engaged in war, and military men have derived great benefit from the operations of those great armies; but we have had no great naval war for the last seventy years, and the conditions of naval warfare have changed with such extraordinary rapidity that I do not suppose you would get any six of the most distinguished naval Officers of the present day who would agree as to the conditions which are certain in future Naval warfare. Therefore, it seems to me that it is perhaps even more necessary that Naval subjects should be discussed here than Army subjects, because you must recollect the expenditure for your Army and Navy is subject to what I may call a new peril. The manufacture of munitions of war is now becoming a very lucrative business, and there are great establishments, not only in this country but abroad, which are supported by a great amount of capital, which are associated with the ablest men of science of the day, with the first chemists, with men who are accustomed to manipulate and superintend manufacturing establishments, all of which are prepared to supply any nation with any kind of weapon of novelty and of precision. But all these establishments trade for commercial profit; and although they naturally look to their reputation and would not foist upon the Government a bad article, still I think it is most advisable, before the Army or Navy becomes pledged to particular expenditure on any new weapon, that the advantages of that weapon or expenditure should not only be discussed by the professional Officers of the War Office and the Admiralty, but by an independent tribunal such as this Institution. I think we are all agreed that it is most advisable that we should endeavour to anticipate the outbreak of war by perfecting our administration and our organization beforehand. We all now know that the administrator, the organizer, the designer, and the inventor have their functions during peace quite as important as those of the combatant during war, and this Institution is one of the few platforms upon which I may say the administrator, the organizer, the designer, and the inventor can meet on equal terms, and discuss those questions which relate to their spheres of action; and if anything were to happen in any way to impair the efficiency of this Institution, I think it would be an almost irreparable loss both to the Army and the Navy. One speaker, I think Admiral Mayne, alluded to great reductions of expenditure with which he was pleased to associate my name. Well, Gentlemen, the Naval Estimates are not out yet, but they will be out in a few days; but, if you will allow me, I would liken the results of our exertions of the past eighteen months at the Admiralty to the last paper of 1887, I think it was, and an excellent paper, read before this Institution. It was a paper pointing out the absolute necessity of keeping the bottoms of ships clean, for it pointed out that no matter how powerful might be the engines, how excellent and symmetrical the lines of the vessel, if a great mass of crustaceous matter and parasitical growth were allowed to accumulate round the hull of a ship, the efficiency of that vessel would be largely impaired. Now, although we have made reductions in the Naval Estimates, those reductions are mainly due to the same prosaic work of cleaning the bottom of naval expenditure. We have endeavoured to remove all the extraneous growth of past years, and which, I think, would have been taken off if the bottom of naval expenditure had been more frequently overhauled in the past; but so far as the actual efficiency of the Service is concerned, I think I may say in every essential, we make larger provisions than before.

Now, Gentlemen, if I might venture for one moment to touch on a subject which, perhaps, will not meet the approval of all here present, I would say this, that anybody who, like myself, is placed in the very responsible position of being the Parliamentary head of a great Service, finds the adequate discharge of those duties attended with one great difficulty. It is necessary to sanction constantly fresh expenditure for fresh objects which are essential to the efficiency of the Service, and the desire of everyone who has the interests of either Army or Navy at heart is to make them thoroughly efficient for the future. Well, now, if we are to make both Services thoroughly efficient for the future, we must not mind breaking a little with the past. Let us preserve all that is good in the past; but it not infrequently happens that when new expenditure is proposed for new objects, those new objects should supersede a good deal of old expenditure which was devoted to old objects; and if the Officers of experience who constitute the great mass of those who belong to this Institution would, when they are considering new proposals of expenditure, be able to indicate how a saving by the abolition of obsolete objects of expenditure could be effected, they would enormously facilitate the objects which both I and the Secretary of State for War have at heart. I am afraid I have detained you too long. I thank you very much for the honour you have been good enough to pay me, and I can assure you that, so far as I am personally concerned, I will do everything in my power to secure for this most excellent Institution a future home alike worthy of the work which it performs as well as of the two great Services with which it is associated.
